Brief Introduction of UN Environment-Tongji

Institute of Environment for Sustainable Development

UN Environment-Tongji Institute of Environment for Sustainable Development, hereinafter referred to as "IESD", jointly established by UN Environment and Tongji University in 2002, has served as a strategic think-tank for UN Environment, an inter-disciplinary platform for Tongji University and contributed significantly to environment and sustainable development from three main pillars -- education, research and outreach. IESD has the mandate to mainstream environment and sustainable development into higher education, to promote research, education and South-South Cooperation on the environment and sustainability, to enhance the service of science and technology to policy-making and implementation, and to provide tailored solutions to the Southern countries.

Up to date, IESD has provided environmental education for students from nearly 30 countries, and carried out capacity-building for more than 4000 participants from developing countries through training programs, seminars and forums. Meanwhile, in cooperation with UNEP, China's ministries and diversified stakeholders, IESD undertakes research projects, including UN Environment-China-Africa Cooperation Program on Environment supported by Ministry of Science and Technology (MOST), Chongming Eco-Island Project, Green Economy Textbook, Multi-dimensional evaluation system on China's low-carbon economy, South-South Cooperation Case Studies, etc. Till now, more than 100 patents have been applied in the environmental fields in China.

Furthermore, in collaboration with China Meteorological Administration (CMA) and Science and Technology Commission of Shanghai Municipality (STCSM), IESD has respectively established a Key Laboratory of Cities' Mitigation and Adaptation to Climate Change (CMACC) and a Key Laboratory of Chemicals Risk Management. Besides, IESD has been selected as the Secretariat for Global Universities Partnership on Environment and Sustainability (GUPES) with more than 560 members all over the world. Meanwhile, IESD and UN Environment have signed an MoU on the translation and publication of Chinese versions of UNEP important publications to mainstream the concept of environment and sustainability in China.
